
At this Swiss auction your dream car won't cost a fortune

A Ferrari 456, a Porsche 993 or a Range Rover have been on your wish list for way too long? Why don't you have a look at the catalogue for the upcoming auction by Oldtimer Galerie Toffen on October 16.

While the cost of living in Switzerland can be eyewateringly expensive, buying classic cars at Swiss dealers or auctions isn't such a bad idea at all: The Swiss have a rather sophisticated taste in cars and classics or youngtimer are often very well kept, with few owners, low mileage, and offered at reasonable prices. Same is true for the auctions organized regularly by Oldtimer Galerie Toffen. At their upcoming sale on October 16, the Swiss Auctioneers are offering a selection of more than 100 classic and modern collector cars. We have studied the catalogue - which can be found in the Classic Driver Market - and picked 10 cars we would bid on without having to invest a fortune.

We would bid on these 10 cars
