Description

-Originally purchased in 2006 and converted in 2007 by Becker Automotive Design to the Dodge Sprinter van you see here at a cost of over $350,000. It is the epitome of luxury, the interior was converted from a basic van to a place that anyone would be happy to relax in whether you are being driven from your home to your office, your office to your private jet, or entertaining clients. With room for up to 8 adults comfortably there is nothing that this rolling luxury office does not have.

A driver controlled power sliding door grants access to the inside where all of the seats have been converted to plush leather covered power recliners with foot rests or sofa style bench seats. The amenities are near endless, for starters there is a complete audio/visual/computer system (with a printer) that runs on Windows, connected to multiple screens, throughout the vehicle, including a 30" LCD monitor in the front, dual 10" overhead and additional monitors in the headrests. Up top there is a roof mounted KVH satellite system so you won't miss any important news feeds or TV shows of your choice. A DVD player is also available if needed. The jet style roof has custom burlwood veneered ceiling trim, along with additional trim on the side consoles, bulkhead and sliding door. Aviation style folding trays are located at many seating positions, providing ample work space or just a spot to rest your drink. There are multiple forms aviation style LED lighting throughout the van which can be controlled from both the front and rear compartments. All windows have aviation style electric power blinds and individual controls at each seating position. There is storage for drinks and multiple cup holders throughout the interior. To keep all this running there was an extra battery added along with a 200 amp MBZ alternator, and a 2000 watt Pure Sinewave Inverter. A power partition is in place for complete privacy from the driver.

Taking account for the added weight, a independent rear suspension, engineered by Becker Automotive Design was built with a heavy duty housing, nodular iron case and pinion support. A custom built cast aluminum center section houses a Ford 9" differential. Heavy duty upper control arms and custom aluminum bearing hubs incorporates the factory rear brakes. Fox shocks, Hypercoil springs and modifications to the drive shaft round out the mechanicals. Additionally, there are numerous exterior styling upgrades, such as a front spoiler, front fender flares, custom side steps and Mercedes Benz AMG wheels and front and rear cameras.

A full detailed set of invoices will come with the sale of the vehicle. In excellent running a driving condition the luxury Sprinter van is ready for its next owner.
